Stalwart Walkers of Our Earlier Days

Following is another extract from a document titled Stalwart Walkers of Our Earlier Days published by the Melbourne Walking Club.

Trevor Davey

Trevor joined the Club in 1923 and until his tragic death whilst on active service in 1943 became one of the Club's most popular and active members. A Club trip without Trevor was an unusual occurrence, but he wrote little of his experiences. What is known is that he led the Christmas trip with pack-horses to the Cobberas and Pilot in 1938. He was a member of the pioneering party who walked from Buffalo to Mt Selwyn, Barry Mountains, Speculation and Howitt in 1934-5, spent a fortnight on a winter trip to Cradle Mountain area, probably in 1936, which included a 5-day trip to the centre of the reserve, an area dominated by Mts Pelion East and West, Oakleigh and Ossa. Christmas 1940 saw Trevor and a small group of fine walkers, Alan Budge, Clyde Grant, Harry Wright, and Peter Allnut in the Castle Hill and Wonnangatta region. With a companion, he visited Mt Cook in New Zealand in the mid-1930s but he left no record of the trip. Somewhat frustrating for the researcher, Trevor's photographs include the Ada River area, Mt Cobbler, Lake Mountain, Mts Selma and Useful, the Murrindindi and Wellington River country, but no written accounts of his visits there survive.

Trevor was a competent skier and he spent several winters exploring the Bogong High Plains from a base camp at Cope Hut.

The Walkers' Rag was a single copy typed magazine illustrated with little sketches. It was humourous, gently satirical and sometimes ironic. Each issue had a profile of a 'Famous Walker'. The magazine made its appearance at irregular intervals commencing in 1930, with the editor's identity unknown to most Club members. This was not disclosed until after his death that Trevor Davey was responsible. The final issue, prepared by his friends fittingly featured Trevor as a 'Famous Walker'.
